

How relevant are communities of practice in a network age?

A thoughtful re-consideration of how Communities of Practice can serve us – with some great points about formality and utility of CoP groups. Whether you are a community leader or working within a corporate environment – John Tropea has touched on a whole bunch of ideas that require us to stop and think. <http://bit.ly/2EG5C>